

Dear Friends

Thank you for joining us for Design Week 2007. Wherever you look in the Meatpacking District you will find design. From our historic awnings and cobblestones to the new boutiques and restaurants that have come to call the area home. In fact, the low-rise architecture of the district was recently honored when it was placed on the State and National Register of Historic Places. Even as we honor our past, our future neighborhood burgeons around us – with the coming Standard Hotel and the High Line under daily construction.

Enjoy yourself in the neighborhood this weekend. Take a moment to experience more than 35 events and exhibitions that are part of Meatpacking District Design Week. You are in a neighborhood in transition, one that continues to welcome and foster a community of creative entrepreneurs.

See you around the neighborhood!

Welcome

What I love about the Meatpacking District is that it's the perfect location to host alternative design events since so many exciting architecture and design projects are currently underway. I was inspired by the off-site design culture in Milan during Salone di Mobile and have always wanted to recreate that atmosphere here in New York City during I.C.F.F. Voila, mission accomplished.

The theme for Design Week '07 is Colliding Worlds of Design, Fashion and Art — a statement that embodies the spirit and diverse membership of the neighborhood. We have assembled an extraordinary series of exhibitions, panel discussions and cocktail parties. So, please tip in and out of the galleries, shops and restaurants, and make a toast to New York Design Week.
